When it comes to interior kitchen doors, it's probably fair to say that, in most domestic and commercial premises, they are generally the main attraction.....

They are the major talking point. when it comes to Quasar's fantastic range of rough-sawn doors, you're sure to have friends, family and clients talking about them for some time to come!

These kitchen doors are bespoke, they are manufactured and finished, ready to fit for all our clients.

There's no doubt that some species of wood lend themselves to a rustic appearance better than others, and Quasar's rough-sawn door range offers the best that timber has to offer. The doors are cut from prime-grade timber and are available in Ash, Oak, Eucalyptus, Dark Grey Oak, Light Grey Oak and Satin Walnut, so there's something to suit every interior décor style or commercial premises.

The fact that the range is bespoke means that the doors are available in every width and length required. Equally, the fact that the doors are all natural products means that no two rooms will ever be the same, so you're guaranteed a unique, individual finish each and every time you install them!

'We're absolutely delighted to be able to offer this fantastic range of rough-sawn doors to our clients,' says Quasar owner, Alan Dickson. 'There's no doubt that a piece of wood - particularly a rough-sawn piece of wood can have a massive impact on the aesthetic appeal of a room.

'Our bespoke range means that we can bring versatile décor to any space regardless of whether it's a domestic or commercial setting. Also, the fact that the doors are available in a range of shades and colors, with a range of finishes from matt to high gloss - and in the best prime-grade timbers available - means that there's literally a shade or a colour to suit any home or commercial premises.

'We're increasingly finding that clients are looking for that personalised, individual look for their homes or premises and the fact that the doors are all made from natural products will guarantee that individual touch, since no two doors will ever look the same.

'Doors are the main attraction when it comes to interior design, they're definitely a vital component in interior design. Most people buy homes or rent commercial premises where the doors are already installed, and so a lot of people won't give the doors much thought. When we show them how much changing doors can change the whole look and 'vibe' of a room, they're simply blown away. With our new rough-sawn range, the impact is even greater due to the sheer, natural beauty of the range of timbers.

'I would advise any client to invest in good doors for their homes or commercial premises, whether they're completely remodeling or simply looking for a change to the overall appearance of the room.

'The door colour is an important factor to consider and we're delighted to be able to offer a range of woods and colours. Those customers, who are looking for neutral shades will be attracted primarily to the Ash or Light Grey Oak option, while those looking for more a bolder look - one in which the door contrasts with the wall - thereby making the door the focal point - will be drawn more to the Eucalyptus or Satin Walnut.

'Either way, Quasar's new rough-sawn range of doors has something for everyone!'
